Fancy an extra hour in bed but still want to be among the first to hit the slopes? Heliskiing has your name written all over it. Forget about the ski lift: this elevated winter sport grants proficient skiers and snowboarders unparalleled access to an untracked powder wonderland. You'll be quickly and comfortably whisked by helicopter from St Moritz-Bad over dramatic terrain to the helipad at the Corvatsch mountain station, situated at 3,303m above sea level. From there, you can ski directly into an untamed winter wilderness. Off-piste downhill skiing has never looked better.
